MEET AIDAN

Aidan is majoring in Political Science and Global and International Studies.

He works for the McCourtney Institute for Democracy in the College of the Liberal Arts as a student coder for their Mood of the Nation poll. The poll gives citizens a series of open-ended questions, allowing them to answer in their own words—saying what is on their minds, what is important to them, and thereby providing a unique window on contemporary American politics.

Aidan served as the constituent relations intern for United States Senator Bob Casey. On campus, he participates in the Critically Acclaimed Movies Club, the Penn State College Democrats, and the Pennharmonics, one of Penn State's a cappella groups.
